

NHS AT 70

Centre for Health Services Studies

#NHS70

Public question and answer event

As the NHS celebrates its 70th birthday, health care services are often in the newspaper headlines but usually highlighting crises and problems. There are also Government promises of new plans and funding. So what is the truth? After 70 years, what state is the NHS really in and what does the future hold?

To address these and other questions about the NHS locally and nationally, the Centre for Health Services Studies is hosting a public question and answer event with a panel of national and local speakers. This is your chance to ask about the health of the NHS both nationally and locally.

Our panel includes:

- Professor Sir Nick Black from the London School of Hygiene and Tropical Medicine
- Rosie Duffield MP
- Professor Steve Smith, Chair of East Kent Hospital NHS Foundation Trust
- Steve Inett, CEO Healthwatch Kent

Thursday 12th July 2018, 7pm to 9pm

Free drinks reception from 6.30pm to 7.00pm

Colyer-Fergusson Music Hall , University of Kent, Canterbury

This event is free and open to all, no booking necessary

Further information

T: 01227 823052

E: h.l.wooldridge@kent.ac.uk

www.kent.ac.uk/chss

