

Ethical Approval

NHS ethics approved our study. This means that the research is safe and they are happy with it. We got the thumbs up to start our research!

Survey – now ready!

Our survey is ready! You can do this online or you can print it and post it to us. We have had over 200 responses so far! These were from people with intellectual disabilities and their staff and family. Here are the links:

Survey link for adults with ID:

https://kentsspssr.eu.qualtrics.com/jfe/form/SV_eVCFsvWiFNJmudE

Survey link for carers and professionals:

https://kentsspssr.eu.qualtrics.com/jfe/form/SV_5pT3kJcoBJaIT9s

Safer Online Lives Website

We now have a website. We hope you like it!

This is the link:

<https://research.kent.ac.uk/tizard/safer-online-lives>

Twitter

We also started a Twitter, where we share updates about the research. We are @IDSaferonline, follow us!

We are doing some shout-outs to people who have helped us with the research, like RAG! If you want to get involved with this, email Jessie or Vivi.

Jessie – j.newsome@kent.ac.uk

Vivi – p.triantafyllopoulou@kent.ac.uk

Podcast

Vivi did a podcast with Ciara Lawrence. Ciara has a learning disability. Vivi talked to her about our research. Her podcast is called "Ciara's Pink Sparkle Podcast" and you can listen to it on Spotify.

Presentation

We did a presentation about how we made our project accessible to people with intellectual disabilities. We couldn't have done this without the help of the Researching Altogether Group (RAG). Thank you so much!

Loads of people have shared our research – thank you!

Please keep telling people about our research! We can give you the leaflets to share as well, just ask us!

A stylized graphic of the words 'thank you!' in a cursive, handwritten font. The text is surrounded by small yellow stars and a decorative flourish underneath.